New Business

a. Protecting Village Resources

Scott Stevens has received a preliminary engineering plan to demolish a 1760 structure and develop two lots in the Village. The structure is outside of the Historic District. The HDC has the power to delay the demolition for a short time while trying to negotiate an alternative. There are many eighteenth-century houses in the classification of old buildings outside the historic district. A discussion ensued about how such resources can be protected. Several action items were established.

b. Historic Commissioners Training

The National Alliance of Preservation Commissions is an offshoot of the National Park Service program. Training is required annually, and online training is available.
